Industry Leaders Launch “The Office of Tiffany Birdsong,” a Creative Incubator Focused on Social Connection Through Play

SEATTLE, WA – Today marks the official unveiling of The Office of Tiffany Birdsong, a creative entertainment incubator and studio dedicated to reimagining how people connect through play. Founded by a powerhouse team of toy and game industry experts, the studio arrives with a mission to prioritize “social architecture”—designing experiences that favor human connection and shared moments over complex rules.

The studio is co-founded and led by CEO Deirdre Cross, a games industry veteran who previously served as SVP of Games at Moose Toys and Head of Funko Games, and Jessica Aceti, former VP at Prospero Hall and Funko Games. Joining them as a strategic advisor and investor is Andrew Perlmutter, former CEO of pop-culture brand Funko. Matt Christianson joins as Director of Product Development, overseeing the studio’s design standards. Together, this team represents the collective creative and strategic force behind some of the most successful and critically acclaimed brands in the modern tabletop market.

“We believe the best game design focuses on what’s happening around the tabletop, not just on it,” said Cross. “The Office of Tiffany Birdsong is built to create ‘The Perfect Hour’—that window where time disappears, and play becomes the bridge to authentic connection. We are designing the total game night experience: from the rules to the screams of laughter.”

“What Deirdre and Jessica are building is a major market opportunity that I am proud to support,” said Andrew Perlmutter. “Having worked closely with this team for years, I have immense respect for their vision. I’m excited to invest in this new endeavor and advise the studio as they scale this philosophy of play into a global brand.”

Alongside the studio’s launch, the team is proud to announce its debut consumer brand: Hall Party Games™.

The brand will represent a “same great taste, less filling” evolution of the team’s design philosophy. Hall Party Games promotes games that are fun, accessible, and provide rapid playability. The goal is to deliver premium, aesthetically bold experiences that remove the “intellectual friction” and complex rule-learning that often act as barriers to play.

The studio emphasis is “TikTok-forward” with discovery-commerce friendly themes. They will focus on creator-led content that highlights the joy-filled exuberance and vibrant aesthetic of the upcoming portfolio.

The founding team will be taking meetings at the Licensing Expo in Las Vegas this May to discuss upcoming opportunities and the studio's unique approach to brand building.
